

The HISTORICAL METALLURGY Society

Grant Application Form

The Society awards grants for activities that further the aims of the Society ("to educate and instruct the public by the furtherance of the study, investigation, description and preservation of the historical and archaeological evidence of the extraction and preparation of ores and other relevant minerals, of the smelting and working of metals, of the manufacture and use of metal objects and of other relevant activities"). Grants are provided from the investment income of funds set aside for this purpose.

A short report (about 500-1000 words) of the results of the research or activity supported must be submitted to HMS following receipt of a grant. This would be considered for inclusion in the journal Historical Metallurgy or the newsletter The Crucible.

Within the aims of the Society as defined above, there is no restriction as to the purpose of an application. In the past grants have typically been made for research, travel, publication, or attendance at conferences. Applications for grants are considered by Council in March and October and must be received by the end of the preceding January or August respectively. As a guide, about £700 is available for distribution in each round. Typically grants are of £150 to £350; grants over £500 are exceptional. It is unusual for a grant to be made after the expenditure has been incurred. Any unused funds must be returned to HMS.
